

Introduction

We are proud and excited to introduce the Henri-Lloyd 2026 collection.

At Henri-Lloyd, our mission has always been to deliver the very best that technology and design can offer, so individuals can perform at their peak, whatever the conditions. We design with real-world performance in mind, considering everything from comfort and durability to how our gear supports focus, stamina, and movement when it matters most.

We spend time with crews to understand what works, what doesn't, and what they want more of. That direct feedback, combined with our research into advanced materials and our commitment to constant refinement, helps shape every product we create.

From technical sailing gear to lifestyle essentials, performance and purpose remain at the heart of everything we do. This season, we've continued to prioritise sustainable materials, responsible manufacturing, and thoughtful packaging, without ever compromising on quality.

Thank you for being part of this journey with us.
